Education + Innovation + Excellence

Course Description

Join four faculty experts for an interactive session on the latest advances in ankle care across the continuum of patient needs, from athletic injury and soft tissue reconstruction to deformity correction and end-stage ankle arthritis. Through a case-based discussion, faculty will share clinical insights, treatment considerations, and real-world experiences utilizing Smith+Nephew technologies designed to address a wide range of foot and ankle pathologies. Following the didactic session, attendees will have the opportunity to apply concepts in a hands-on sawbones lab, gaining practical experience with multiple ankle solutions.

Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to:

- Evaluate treatment strategies for a spectrum of ankle pathologies, including athletic injuries, soft tissue reconstruction needs, deformity correction, and end stage ankle arthritis through case-based discussions.
- Discuss clinical decision-making considerations and patient-specific factors that influence the selection and application of foot and ankle treatment solutions utilizing Smith+Nephew technologies.
- Apply techniques and concepts in a sawbones lab using multiple ankle solutions to address a variety of foot and ankle conditions.
